The Islamic State published a video on Tuesday that features about a dozen black female captives donning full-length gowns and veiled head scarves, and kneeling before Isis militants. The video shows the black women, who were seized during operations in Iraq and Syria, wearing black gowns and headscarves, sitting on a tile floor with their hands tied. The women are then blindfolded and led away, presumably to be executed. Another woman who appears to be a Kurdish captor, who is speaking Farsi, asks a woman why she is wearing a hijab. "Are you surprised to see me?" the woman is asked. "This is my religion." The woman responds that it is Islam and the video concludes. The extremist group has beheaded some of its female captives before and released a video with similar footage last December. Jubilant fighting broke out on Sunday when US and Iraqi troops captured Mosul's Baiji oil refinery, which the terrorist group seized in 2014. Airstrikes and ground assaults by the Iraqi troops are continuing as they drive to Mosul's airport. Iraqi forces are currently racing to recapture about one fourth of the country by the end of the year. The US-led coalition has carried out nearly 1,500 airstrikes against the IS bastion since August 8, according to US Central Command, which also said the operation had not yet ended.Q: Difference between generating traffic and measure traffic with speed test I have a VPS with Ubuntu 16.04 and I want to measure my website's page speed, So I found a tool named "Pingdom" and I set my site's url to the tool and it says my pagespeed is 17ms which is OK (but I want to make the speed as low as possible). So I need to make a speed test tool for my site and now I have a question that Why some tools (like Pingdom) say their page speed is ok and some say it is very low like 50ms or 30ms. Actually Pingdom says I have medium speed and other tools say I have very low speed. So I am not sure which tool is right for me. Does these tools can be trusted? or should I use another tool? A: Speed tests measure the HTTP response time of the web server serving the web page. The only way to really know the

in SQL Server I have a table where I need to remove time components when inserting. I can't do it because of a column constraint (only allow dates). So I thought to use the syntax "date, time(0) as Time" in order to remove the time component but I'm getting the error Column specification of 'date, time(0) as Time' must have same datatype and length. So I don't know how to make this function work. A: The issue is that you can't have a time type in your column since it only has a precision of 1. If you remove the time portion of the time data type then you should be able to use it. It is a datetime2 though so you will get the date portion from the insert as part of the datetime2 data type. alter table YourTable drop column YourColumn go alter table YourTable add column YourColumn datetime2(0) insert into YourTable select date, time(0) as Time from YourTable Does decreased wall stress alter the cardiac response to volume loading in patients with aortic stenosis? The aim of this study was to determine the mechanisms behind the increase in cardiac output after volume expansion, in patients with severe aortic stenosis, with lower than normal left ventricular end-diastolic pressures and improved inotropy. The haemodynamic response to rapid volume expansion in 20 patients with aortic stenosis and 14 normal subjects was determined by echocardiography before and after application of small boluses
