The red circle target was always showing where you should be aiming, but the orange ring would go in the direction where you're actually looking. That meant that you would be hitting where you actually want to hit, and the red circle would show where you should be hitting. At the start of wave "15" (wave 97), you're instantly swarmed. That means you either didn't get the countdown for whatever reason, or you got hacked while the countdown is going. At this exact moment, there is a second map pointer. I believe this was caused by the changes for level 8 (FMV). If you want to make it fully working, I recommend that you go through the code and fix what you can. All the things I mentioned are hardcoded, but maybe you can find a way to fix them. Here is the code in case you're interested in looking through: #include #include #include #include #include "common.h" #include "player.h" #include "game.h" #include "cscope.h" #include "macros.h" // 0x2364c70, 0xbb0ae4f4 char *gobuf; static unsigned char *buf; // char *wallhack; // int void handle_debug_string(char *str) { do { if (buf!= NULL) fputs(buf, stdout); 82138339de
