XML is an Extensible Markup Language. It is the "Open Document Format". XML is an open standard format, which can be edited by any program. The great advantage of XML is that it is easily machine-readable and searchable. XML is used by over 15,000 different applications. It is the foundation for many programming languages, notably Java and C#. XML is also commonly used for storing data in the Internet. WebsiteWise is the ultimate Web publishing system that lets you do all your web site development and publishing work in a simple drag-and-drop environment. WebsiteWise will make it easy for you to build a web site by providing powerful capabilities for designing and building the site, managing content, and publishing to the Web. WebsiteWise includes a component architecture that allows you to build many different types of web sites. Its features include an HTML editor, a URL mapper for cross-browser compatibility, built-in CSS and JavaScript support, HTML table support, and a file browser for the content. The HTML editor provides full WYSIWYG (what you see is what you get) support with a browser-like interface that lets you create, edit, and view web pages. WebsiteWise supports many popular web standards, including HTML, XHTML, XHTML 1.1, CSS, and HTML 4. You can preview and publish pages in HTML and XHTML 2.0 and HTML 4.0. The built-in support for XHTML 1.1 lets you use XHTML as the standard on your pages. WebsiteWise has an HTML editor for creating and editing web pages, and an XML editor for writing RSS feeds. You can also write JavaScript and add code to your pages. The WebsiteWise components run on your computer in two different ways. The easiest way to work with WebsiteWise is through the WebsiteWise Designer. This lets you do all the work by clicking a button, then previewing your work in a new browser window. You can see how your pages will look in your browser, and you can choose how you want to look and feel. When you are ready, you can click the publish button to open a new window and publish your page. You can also work with WebsiteWise in the components mode, which lets you use your web browser to work on your pages. The components editor also lets you build RSS feeds and include an XML editor for adding content to your pages. WebsiteWise is easy Id6a3396d6

GeoIP or geo location is a software module or database that keeps track of IP addresses and provides accurate location information about them. IP addresses have unique network identification numbers that help computers communicate over a network. When you use a computer over a network to access web pages, email, or submit a search query, the computer's IP address is used to identify the location of the computer. Internet Service Providers and other organizations that have multiple computers in a single network can use a geolocation database to find out the geographic location of each computer in their network. Geolocation database are in use not only by ISPs and web hosting companies but also by online retailers, spyware and virus companies, as well as web development companies. This database also has an impact on advertisers as it can help them target their advertising campaigns more precisely. It can also help web developers find new customers for their services by allowing them to connect to a physical location of the computer. Comodo GeoIP uses the database information to know the country, state, city, neighborhood or area, and zipcode of the user computer. This application allows you to see where is your IP address located and to which country and continent it belongs to. GeoIP Location & Security Analytics Tool is simple to use and has a user-friendly interface.
