Photoinitiated Synthesis of Isoindolin-1-One Derivatives by Means of Benzyne Trapping: A Catalyst-Free Route to Spirooxindoles with High Site-Selectivity. A facile photoinitiated isomerization of the Z-1,2-dihydroindoles has been developed. An efficient protocol for the synthesis of spirooxindoles with high site-selectivity is presented by employing the reaction between the N-benzylated indoles and enamines in the presence of a photocatalyst. An in situ generated organobenzyne triggers the isomerization of the indole moiety and affords the corresponding isatin-1-one products via rearrangement of the aromatic system.Q: Сериализация данных из БД в с# программно Здравствуйте.
