Before I get started, I would like to point out that I am playing as a defender. I do not have the best reputation with FIFA, although I am not the worst for a defender either. I finished my career in FIFA 20 as a defender (I used to play striker). I didn't really play too much of it after that though. So I am excited to see what EA has done this time around to make defenders the best they can be in FIFA 22. Now, let's get into this review. Gameplay The gameplay of FIFA 22 feels pretty similar to that of FIFA 19 (and FIFA 20 also for that matter). That doesn't necessarily mean it is not a good thing though, I still think it is a good thing. I do feel like EA has taken some care to move the ball faster and make defenders even more intelligent, but that is it. Another thing that is worth noting is that I have been playing on a PS4 Pro, but that is purely cosmetic. If I am being honest, the pros of the PS4 Pro still outweigh the cons for me as it has a huge amount of power and a pristine video output. So it works great for me, with regards to gameplay. Each round (as in 'seasons') you get a different game mode you can go to, each of which has its own variations. For a quicker version of the same, I usually go to: 1v1 or 2v2 Co-Op, which is basically a counter-attack game. The bc9d6d6daa
