15 Realistic Player Traits and Feels, New Battle System and Tactical Commanders All-new animations and behavioral interactions have been added to give players a unique and distinct feel. These features are also used to equip new player traits that enhance gameplay. The shift has also resulted in drastically improved player reactions and new player behaviors such as dribbling, holding up the ball, chipping/volleying, and throwing in the air. The player now understands and reacts to the ball in an entirely different way. The ball feels different, thanks to the addition of a larger, newly positioned, and textured rubber core to the ball. In addition, all players now show realistic reactions to ball touches. Players now understand the importance of controlling the ball, deflecting it, and passing it. Other major additions include a more organic and intense foul system that reacts to player touches; a shot meter that allows players to control their shooting power; and three different styles of dribbling that can be utilized in different situations. The Dynamic Tactical Commander

System (DTCS) has also been redesigned to encourage players to take the lead and play in a more open, attacking style of football. The new design is described as the “Modern Tactical Manager.” All of the tools that are required to play in an attacking style have also been brought together in one streamlined interface. This allows players to access a series of orders that can be custom-tailored based on the tactical situation. The gameplay style has been enhanced significantly and can now be played in a variety of ways, including: Attack-minded, Attacking, Defense-minded, Controlled, Dynamic Balanced, Passive and Defensive. Each tactical style is designed to provide greater options and tools to the player on the pitch. Each tactical style is designed to provide greater options and tools to the player on the pitch.
