This is a first-person dungeon-crawling RPG. You will enter 6 characters, and fight a single boss at the end of the dungeon. Each character has a Class and a Race. Classes in turn have three sub-classes, and one of those sub-classes is given to each of the races that can take them. ... The interface is very basic: the five-screen layout shows a map, a fight list, the contents of your backpack, an equipment-picker, and a log-screen. The equipment-picker lets you type a number of items to add to your backpack. The things you find while exploring will be automatically added. About The Characters The people are just a bunch of random people. Race : who they are Class : what they do Each character has a Race (or a specific combination of Races) and a Class. While it is strongly encouraged to use the same Class and Race combination for each character, you are free to change your preference later on. Races are different, but the same rules apply to each one. There is nothing special about dwarfs or elves, except for that they each have a stat related to their class. Races differ mostly by their starting skills, with Elves being the most centered on offense and Dwarves on defense. Each race has fifteen starting skills, and these skills will determine their progress in the game. ... This is a small adventure game. For most players, it should take around 30 minutes to complete. The usual way to play is to be equipped with six characters, and a single dungeon. If you know what you're doing, you can even complete a dungeon in under 10 minutes, but it is unlikely. About The Equipment Picker The inventory is a very basic inventory-picker. Items need to be bought with skill-licenses that are found in different places. There are vending machines to buy the licenses, and computers on the top floor to print them out. As you do your exploration, items will automatically be added to your backpack. They will be deleted as soon as the screen is closed. About The Dungeon A single dungeon; 1 floor, 6 rooms, 1 exit.

What's new in Turtle Rush:

: Operation Barbarossa Tiger Tank vs German Fatigues and other Story Instructions Opponent: KrohNote: All times are based on Pacific Standard Time. The tanks will start out on the Beach, with the LTI stationary for the judges. Supporting Smokes and Berms should be taken after I see picture 1. The Tiger Tank will contest this single scenario, trying to make it back to the middle with the other tank. If there is no contest, the Tiger Tank will make a suicide attempt while the other tank ploughs over it. 1) The Tiger Tank will spawn at Hills 11 (once the map starts) with map coordinates -18-16. The Tiger Tank will make use of a tank commander and two Panzerjäger (three games, not the bonus one) plus the crew to move to Middle with the other tank. On the other side of the map, the other tank will spawn on Hills 13 (once the map starts) with map coordinates -18-16. The LT will spawn on Hills 15 (once the map starts) with map coordinates -19-15. The Tiger will try to get to the middle with the help of the LT. 3) If the Tiger Tank ever makes it to the middle before the other tank; the other tank will not contest the Tiger Tank and will fire at the Tiger Tank killing him, in order to save the LT. (All the Tiger Tank kills are counted on the Russian main but not the LT part). 4) On any given map, the other tank may enter the "Dead End" if he can't get away from his spawn point to the Tiger Tank. The Tiger Tank will then try to contest him and if the Tiger Tank is killed, the Tiger Tank will win. However, if the Tiger Tank dies in the intended way, the other tank will win. Be aware that putting the Tiger Tank on Hills 18 (Soviet HQ) will NOT prevent it from contesting the other tank to the middle. What will happen is that the Tiger Tank will stop to contest for a while from Hills 18 and will then restart again and contest. There will be no clear finish line which will involve up to 40 minutes gameplay. Example map Example map Example The terms Tiger Tank and Tiger Leader are a combination of the names of the Tiger attack tank used in the German blitzkrieg campaign of 1941, the Tiger I, and from the assumed commander, the Tiger Einheit (Tiger Unit).
