The Sun is Dying is a new sci-fi themed action RPG with a rich story and setting. The core of The Sun is Dredge, a material blackhole. It is the result of a decommissioned star. The ability to warp through and exploit deep space allows exploration of strange new worlds. Discover and plunder the secrets of new territories and traverse deep space. Key features: An exotic sci-fi setting, with loads of wormhole and asteroid content Explore a huge procedurally generated universe where the world is your oyster A rogue-lite experience with the feeling of an MMO Story Driven Sandbox Combat Combat in The Sun has a strong emphasis on evasion and precise positioning. Enemy troops use their weapons to do as much damage as possible, while you use your armor to absorb as much damage as possible. Your current armor rating will be displayed at the top right of the screen. The combat takes place in a theater where you choose from a number of weapon/armorspecific skills to use against a wide array of different enemy troops. These skills usually have a cooldown time, meaning you have to use them quickly or risk being overwhelmed. Some of the skills can also perform more complex attacks. Combat has a strong emphasis on evasion and precise positioning. Each combat encounter has its own unique style. Each encounter has its own unique style. Expect to be triggered by events that make a tactical ambush or a carefully planned battle. Combat is exhilarating, with the potential to cause massive damage or completely cripple the enemy. Classes and Skills The three game classes (Soldier, Scout and Engineer) exist to fill the roles the game's skill trees present. Each class has its own attributes and strengths, which influence how the corresponding skill tree works. For example, the Engineer builds weapons and armor, while the Soldier is specialized in melee combat, and the Scout builds the most diverse set of skills. The game is highly customizable. The basic classes have hundreds of skills to choose from, and each skill has numerous variants that can be unlocked by progressing through the skill tree. There are choices for every type of job, from simple tanking to infiltrating and setting up traps. In the course of a single game, you have the chance to play as your favorite character. Unlock these alternate classes and see how they play, or even see how your favorite powers interact with each other. Extended Observ c9d1549cdd

3 Best Sandals for your Feet during the Winter

Wintertime is a great time for sandals, where your feet feel warmer thanks to the temperatures you're on top of. If you're like me and want to bring you fashion forward sandals that are comfortable and warm in this kind of weather, then let's have a look at what I recommend.

1. Blinged-Up Heel Sandals

Heel Sandals | RedBubble The best thing about this sandal is that it's not too dressy, but is still cute and funky. As for the price, they're very affordable and you get what you pay for – a simple little heel sandal. They also come in a variety of colours, so you can get a pair that is a perfect match for your winter clothes, even though it's supposed to be a summertime style. But hey, who are we to judge fashion. ? Get your Blinged-Up Heel Sandals at RedBubble

2. Winter Frock Sandals

Winter Frock Sandals | Toms These sandals are perfect for winter due to the fact that they cover your whole foot in the top and bottom. This means you'll be protected from the cold on your toes and heels. The shoes look good on their own, but are even more cute with a winter frock. Add some spikes to your boots and you'll have a winter

What's new:

Mygnar is a former municipality in the canton of Ticino in Switzerland. It is the easternmost municipality of the canton of Ticino and lies in the northern foothills of Monte Ceneri and near the Italian border. On 1 January 2012 the municipality was incorporated into the larger neighboring municipalities of Pella, Santa Maria in Bosco, Carona and Denti. The Swiss population swelled since Roman times to the north, east and south of the chapel of Maria Semplice. The population remained high until the end of the 19th century after which a sawing mill on the banks of the Arfi brought significant new settlers. Today about half of the population makes their living with agriculture and forestry.

History Pre-Roman era The area in which today exists the village of Mygnar has been inhabited for a long time, at least since the Bronze Age. When Strabo described the city of Alessandria, he mentioned this Ticino region between Splügen Pass and Campodolcino and the Verze/Val Breugna. Until the fourth century BC the eastward expansion of Ticino was in parallel to a southward expansion, which could also have had an ice-free road to the Aegean region, south of the Po Plain. The Danube also played an important role in the region. The territory of the Roman region of Istria is sometimes mentioned. Roman era to Middle Ages The region of Mygnar was part of the Roman province of Pannonia. The community of Castra Heribersis was not rebuilt, but it had a civilian settlement with a temple. For more than a thousand years the villa was protected by a defensive tower. Ticino was conquered by barbarian tribes in the 4th century; they not only fought in battles and raids, but also built new settlements on the road to the north. The central valley of the Ticino was thus settled by the Alemanni, who built a number of Rhine-way castles, also on the side of the municipality. The Roman era ended with the coming of the Lombards in 582 and the settlement of Milan. The territory of Mygnar was again inhabited by Lombards in the 8th century, and they held it until 784. The settlements of Aosta (Castelgermo) and Primiero followed the administration on both sides of the Arvi
