The premises owned by Rongsheng for storage purposes is not located on the land lease.” “6. For the period of its tenancy, Rongsheng did not make proper use of the land under lease.” “8. Plaintiff was damaged as a result of his tenant’s failure to fulfill his contractual obligations.” Aside from these excerpts, the parties have not cited the contract’s text or referred to the exhibit supporting their arguments on appeal. In our view, the text of the contract is not sufficient for an adequate understanding of the legal issues in dispute. The trial court’s statement of facts is supported by the exhibits that comprise the contract. This court will not search the record for evidence that supports the trial court’s ruling. (See City of Santa Ana v. Griset (1995) 35 Cal.App.4th 1031, 1038.) 11 In these circumstances, the trial court abused its discretion by holding a separate trial. We conclude Rongsheng was the prevailing party on the issues adjudicated by the judgment, and the award of attorney fees was proper. III. RONGSHENG’S CROSS-APPEAL c6a93da74d
