I tried desaturating this photo and blacking out people's faces. I was surprised how bad the results were. It also includes a new Spectrum Adjuster panel that lets you quickly adjust color, tone, and brightness to images. A new Adaptive Local Adjustments Layer makes it possible for you to copy and paste adjustments, when you're working on a particular area in the current image. In addition, you can now select areas of the image to lock the adjustments to. The new Exposure Tab now makes it easy to see and adjust the exposure of your image.
